

“TIP OF THE WEEK”

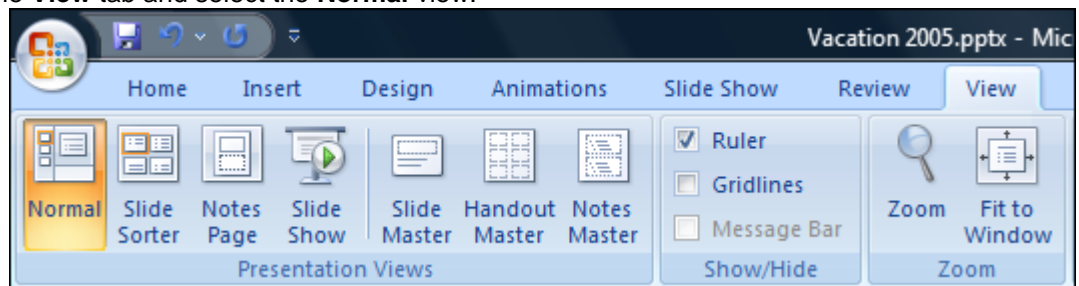

Tip of the Week – 01/23/09

Topic: PowerPoint 2007 – Displaying Graphics from the Master Slide or Not

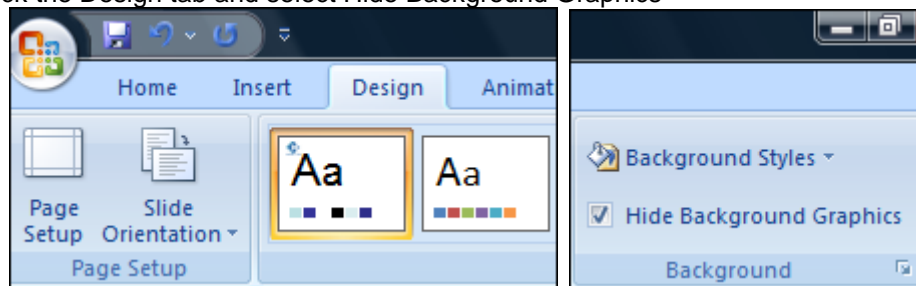

In PowerPoint the use of the Master Document saves time in the creation of your slideshow. If we place a logo on our Master Document that means that every slide will have that logo. But what if the display of that logo is inappropriate for a single slide in the slideshow? Do you have to remove that logo from the Master Document to avoid using it on that slide? The answer is no. Here's how:

Using: PowerPoint 2007:

1. Go to the View tab and select the Normal view.

2. Next click the Design tab and select Hide Background Graphics

Note: This hides all graphics on the Master Slide.

Remember:

While running the presentation in the full screen mode, use F5 to start the presentation from the beginning.
